

California produces nearly all the fresh grapes grown in the United States.