

Spanish explorers brought an Old World species of grape called Vitis vinifera to the New World. This species was first planted in California in 1769 by Franciscan friars, also from Spain.